KEEPING TABS ON STRIKERS.

Thread Mill Property Guarded and Police Ready to Act if Conditions Require Action.

Friday it was announced that a committee from the strikers had arranged for a conference late in the afternoon with Gen. Eugene S. Ross, agent of the local plant of the American Thread Company. The report was confirmed at the company's office, stating further that the strikers had left their work and were no longer considered employees of the company in any way. Public sentiment in the community is strongly against the strikers. If they had a grievance, the proper course would be to appeal to a committee and submit it to the officials before they left their work. At the mills, Friday, it was the lowest priced suits show certain individual touches, $10.00 and $25.00. Women's $25.00 Suits now reduced to $22.50.

authority that the speed was not as great here as in many other mills in the state. It is not to the interests of the company to speed up the machines, as it results in the production of an inferior quality of goods.

Friday afternoon about fifteen strikers were noted loitering around General Ross residence on Windham road and later went down the lane to the railroad and east toward No. 4 mill. Word was sent to police headquarters and Officers McArthur, Hickey and Carter hurried to the mill in Charles Larabee, Jr.'s automobile, who happened to be in the town building at the time. A thorough search of the mill premises was made by the officers but no trace of the strikers was found as they had evidently walked farther down the lane.

All the outside men in the employ of the thread company and many additional men have been put on guard and a regular patrol of the vicinity of No. 4 mill is being maintained. These guards will be on duty day and night and no damage to the property of the company will be done to the mill property. The police department has made arrangements for a hurry up extra officers if more are needed.

Chief E. H. Richmond intends to have the department act quickly and effectively in the future. The strikers are breaking out. The strikers must keep within the law and if they overstep the line and start anything, they will be dealt with according to the circumstances in the case. Property rights of the American Thread Company are to be protected and the rights of all desiring to work are also being protected.

Two officers are now stationed at night in the Polish settlement of the city so that every movement of the men and women out on strike may be carefully watched. Just as soon as any evidence of trouble is apparent extra men will be rushed to the assistance of the officers on duty.

The guards at No. 4 mill are under orders to notify their superintendent the instant any gathering of strikers is noticed in their locality, or anything that is at all suspicious. All about No. 4 mill is a frigid, cold wind and the strikers might easily congregate in that vicinity and cause trouble if attention was not given to the situation.

The police are acquainted with the fact that among the strikers are a number of rough characters, who have police court records, men who have been mixed up in fights and other disturbances at different times. It is known that these men are among the leaders of the present strike movement. All of them are being closely watched and their movements are being known to the police and just as soon as they attempt to start anything they will be looked after.

SIXTY-TWO LOVE LETTERS
To Be Read by Judge Bennett Before Deciding to Grant Divorce to Fitch Rawson—Written by Rawson's Wife to Fred M. Watrous.

Fred M. Watrous of this city was named as co-respondent in a divorce suit instituted by Fitch Rawson against May Spencer Rawson. Attorney Charles E. Kelley, who is representing the petitioner and turned over to Judge William L. Bennett of the superior court a bundle of sixty-two love letters written by Mrs. Rawson to Fred M. Watrous between August, 1908, and April, 1912. Attorney Kelley said the letters were taken from the desk of Mrs. Watrous in the home of the defendant in the case of Angelle Seale company against the S. Adams company of this city. He investigated and found it to be his house frequently. He said he spoke to his wife about the matter until later and then he denied it. In August, 1912, Fred M. Watrous promised witness that he would help him. If he (Rawson) was true and his wife (Watrous) was true, then Rawson testified that he had been with his wife since then. He said his wife finally admitted that what was said in the letters was true and that she had been unduly intimate with Watrous.

Mrs. Olive B. Walker of 126 Spring street said that Rawson and his wife were tenants in her house. Watrous called on Mrs. Rawson very often. He was there on an average of from two to three times each week that she knew of. He was there on an average of from two to three times each week that she knew of.

Judge Bennett's Decision.
Judge William L. Bennett of the superior court has rendered his decision during the day on the divorce case of Fitch Rawson vs. May Spencer Rawson. The decision was rendered in the case of Angelle Seale company against the S. Adams company of this city. He investigated and found it to be his house frequently. He said he spoke to his wife about the matter until later and then he denied it. In August, 1912, Fred M. Watrous promised witness that he would help him. If he (Rawson) was true and his wife (Watrous) was true, then Rawson testified that he had been with his wife since then. He said his wife finally admitted that what was said in the letters was true and that she had been unduly intimate with Watrous.
